City and Shaw TV partner to pilot Council Currents

The City of Campbell River and Shaw TV are turning the Council Meeting Highlights published after each Council meeting into a new television update called Council Currents.

“Council Meeting Highlights continue to be popular, and we are very pleased to be partnering with Shaw TV to produce and televise the updates,” says city manager Deborah Sargent. “We’re looking forward to working together on this new TV show to raise the profile of decisions made at Council meetings.”

Council Currents will be hosted by City clerk Peter Wipper and capture key topics from the week’s meeting highlights in a segment up to five minutes long.

The show will be aired on Shaw TV’s channel four, Thursdays at 1:30 p.m. following the Council meetings.

Episodes will also be posted online on Shaw TV’s YouTube channel. The link to the first episode is: <https://youtu.be/yZgj1ArdcCM>

“With great weather Wednesday afternoon this week, we shot the pilot episode outside at the Discovery Pier,” says Wipper. “What a great location to focus on quality of life in Campbell River and how Council is working for the community.”

People can watch Council meetings live through the City website (follow the link from the home page at www.campbellriver.ca) and sign up to receive Council Meeting Highlights, Council agendas and other City news via email through the newsroom section on the website.
