New commission members announced

Campbell River City Council has appointed members to fill terms that had expired on the Community Services, Recreation & Culture Commission.

Michael Boulet, Chris Callanan, Cheryl Jordan and Dan Wallis will join the commission.

"Council appreciates the dedication of commission volunteers, who provide policy advice and recommendations on a range of topics," says Mayor Andy Adams. "We look forward to their continuing efforts to help build an even better Campbell River."

The Commission advises on the planning and provision of City parks, recreation and culture services, community support services, organized sports, visual arts, performing arts, heritage conservation, outdoor recreation, community beautification and community safety issues.
